

Certain Useful Bed and Breakfast Tips

Nowadays many travelers are choosing the bed & breakfast options, instead of hotels. People who have once stayed in bed & breakfast, they do not prefer to stay in a hotel anymore. The quiet, homely atmosphere of bed & breakfast is appreciated by many of these tourists. If you are a first timer for bed & breakfast, then here is some important information for you.

First of all, you should always keep in mind that bed & breakfast is not a hotel. So, do not expect all the services, which you can receive in a reputed hotel. However, most of the bed & breakfast try to satisfy their guests with as much service as possible. Since, there is no standard set of services; you should be very clear about it while you are booking.

In addition to these, certain bed & breakfast in Vietnam have special rules like you cannot eat inside the room or infant babies are not allowed etc. So, you should also learn about these from the owner of the bed & breakfast, otherwise you might do something inappropriate offending the owner.

The best thing to enjoy at bed & breakfast is its interior decor, which usually is not available in case of hotel accommodations. You can enjoy the delicate touch of the owner as most of the things used are very much personal to him. The furniture, linens, showpieces etc. all are generally used from the owner's collection. You can also get a feel of the local culture and heritage, since many of these items are locally purchased.

Although you are not supposed to avail any meal other than breakfast, you will definitely be informed about the nearby eateries and place of attractions. The breakfast is so special here, that you will not like to miss it. Usually the breakfast is arranged in the hall or the dining room of the house and you are most likely to enjoy the special culinary ability of the owner. You can eat as much as you like, since the options are going to be many.

During your leisure time, you can talk to the owner of the house, who will help you to know about the unheard facts and legends on the locality. Since, the owner is inhabited in this particular locality for long; he has more information than any help-desk receptionist of a reputed hotel.
